

Aimee Fukuchi Bryant is an attorney in the Private Client Department at Nutter McClennen & Fish LLP. Her practice includes sophisticated estate and tax planning for high net worth clients, representing fiduciaries in probate, estate, and trust matters, and appointing guardians and conservators for incapacitated persons. As part of Nutter's Nonprofit and Social Impact practice group, she also counsels donors on charitable giving, charities on applying for tax exempt status, and private foundations on grant-making, tax compliance, and general operations. Aimee is an active participant in Nutter's pro bono program and in Boston's philanthropic community. She was selected for the 2017-2018 class of the Women's Leadership Initiative of the Women's Bar Association of Massachusetts.